CRUISES THROUGH THE EXTREME SOUTH OF THE MALDIVES

An exclusive adventure among untouched atolls, deserted islands, and unforgettable underwater encounters.

Join us in exploring the extreme south of the Maldives—a remote and wild corner of the archipelago where nature still reigns supreme. Here you'll find breathtaking landscapes, postcard-perfect uninhabited islands, and, above all, a vibrant underwater world full of thrilling encounters. From sharks to oceanic mantas and stunning, untouched reefs, this region offers excitement even for the most seasoned divers and snorkelers.

On these cruises, we'll visit three gems of the South: Huvadho, Fuvahmulah, and Addu. These are routes far off the beaten track, offering a more authentic and pristine Maldives experience. Dives are conducted at extraordinary, rarely visited sites with thriving coral and incredible biodiversity.

SNORKELING FOR EVERYONE

(Guided/Assisted)

Snorkelers will enjoy a spectacular variety of reefs to explore. With water temperatures around 29°C year-round, conditions are perfect for swimming alongside reef sharks, sea turtles, vibrant coral formations, and countless reef fish. A true paradise for sea lovers, always accompanied by our expert guides.

FOR FISHING ENTHUSIASTS

While cruising between the southern atolls, guests can try their hand at big-game fishing with the crew's assistance—targeting sailfish, tuna, and marlin. Bottom fishing is also highly rewarding, thanks to the rich waters of the region.

ITINERARY

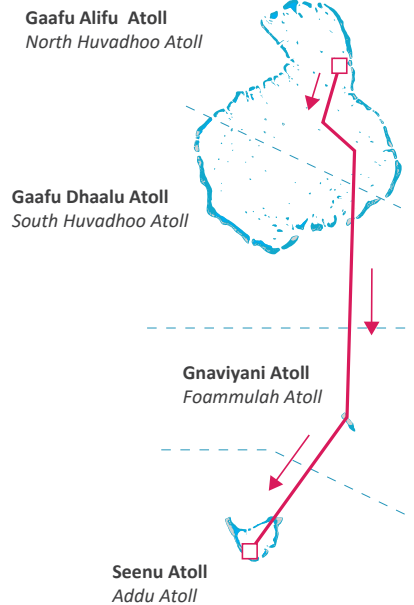

Flexible itineraries across the stunning Extreme South Atolls.

The map shows the full area of the Maldives' Extreme South, but each week we follow different routes—either pre-planned or customized on request.

EXTREME SOUTH CRUISE

THE BEST 7 - Huvadhoo - Fuvahmulah - Addu

SAMPLE ITINERARY & DIVING

After landing at Malé International Airport and taking a short domestic flight, we'll reach the starting point of our cruise, which will vary depending on the selected route: Huvadhoo, Fuvahmulah, or Addu.

Huvadhoo Atoll

The second largest atoll in the world, Huvadhoo is perfect during the Northeast monsoon (January-April), when dives are focused on the eastern side. Calm seas and short sailings make it ideal not only for divers but also for those seeking tranquility on untouched sandbanks and deserted islands. Whale sharks are frequently spotted here, often approaching the boat at night, drawn by the lights.

Fuvahmulah Atoll

A one-of-a-kind island south of the Equator. Though not a true atoll, it's considered one administratively. The Maldives' third-largest island features a unique landscape: freshwater lakes, wetlands, pebble beaches, and various bird species. The diving here is pure adrenaline—Tiger Zoo, vertical walls, strong currents, and high chances of spotting tiger, hammerhead, thresher, and whale sharks, plus oceanic mantas. A dream for the most demanding divers.

Addu Atoll

The southernmost point of the Maldives. Still off the mass tourism radar, Addu offers magical encounters: mantas, pristine reefs, and the massive wreck of the British Loyalty, almost 140 meters long. It's a must-visit for those who want to explore the far reaches of the archipelago.

DIVING

Tailored for experienced divers and thrill seekers, these are among the Maldives' most intense and exciting dives.

- HUVADHOO is renowned for its channel dives—natural theater balconies to watch pelagic action. The seagrass beds attract numerous green and hawksbill turtles.
- FUVAHMULAH offers heart-pounding experiences: strong currents, large predators, various species of sharks, oceanic mantas, and dramatic coral-covered walls. Now world-famous for its tiger shark dives—a truly intimate encounter with the ocean's apex predators!
- ADDU delights with manta cleaning stations, spectacular channels, and the iconic British Loyalty wreck, accessible to all diver levels with depths ranging from 15 to 33 meters.

Every dive is an adventure, in rarely visited sites where anything can happen. All with the safety, organization, and expertise that only Albatros Top Boat can provide. Pack your gear, charge your camera, and join us to discover a whole new way of diving the Maldives.
